FOREWORD

This year, 1964, the Olympic games will be held in Tokyo. For hundreds of athletes these few days will culminate years of vigorous training. For us as well an Olympiad of preparation is ending. We, too, shall receive our laurel wreaths. And yet we know that these years of toil have been only the preliminaries. The real games still lie before us.

Therefore we dedicate this book to the game of American life and to those ideals stirred by the Olympic symbols — the eternal fire of God in man, the lighted torch of liberty in life and the interlocking rings of fellowship and interdependence.

SENIORS

OUR A.F.S. STUDENT

Introducing Oxford's latest import! Our animated friend from Ankara, Yildiz Onay.

With her uninhibited sense of humor, she has added zest to all our activities and spice to our daily living. The sparkle in her dark eyes reveals her curiosity and her enthusiasm in her search for new experiences.

During her short stay she has increased our understanding of her people and of the world.

IN MEMORIAM

"The American Presidency is a formidable, exposed and somewhat mysterious institution. It is formidable because it represents the point of ultimate decision in the American political system. It is exposed because decision cannot take place in a vacuum . . . And it is mysterious because the essence of ultimate decision remains impenetrable to the observer . . .

— John F. Kennedy

"The courage of life is often a less dramatic spectacle than the courage of a final moment; but it is no less than a magnificent mixture of triumph and tragedy. A man does what he must — in spite of personal consequences, in spite of obstacles and dangers and pressures — and that is the basis of all human morality."

—"Profiles in Courage," 1955

"This is a dangerous and uncertain world . . . No one expects our lives to be easy — not in this decade, not in this century."

— Last speech Fort Worth
November 22, 1963

"What kind of peace . . . do we seek? . . . Genuine peace — the kind of peace that makes life on earth worth living — and the kind that enables men and nations to grow and to hope and build a better life for their children — not merely peace for Americans but peace for all men and women — not merely peace in our time, but peace in all time."

— Commencement Address
American University, June 10, 1963

"According to the ancient Chinese proverb, a journey of 1,000 miles must begin with a single step. My fellow Americans, let us take that first step. Let us . . . step back from the shadows of war and seek out the way of peace. And if that journey is 1,000 miles or even more, let history record that we, in this land, at this time, took the first step."

— Report on test-ban treaty
July 26, 1963

"Let the word go forth from this, time and place to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans — born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a cold and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage . . . and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this nation has always been committed and to which we are committed today."
